

Message from AFJN's Executive Director Dr. Steven Nabieu Rogers

Dear Friends in Christ,

As I travel around Africa and meet our hundreds of AFJN volunteers and team members, I'm filled with joy and gratitude seeing the impact of our 42-year-old mission to address the structures that keep people in poverty. We recently held a reflective memorial mass to honor the lives of our founders and all who have contributed to our work with Africa, giving thanks for their dedication to serving the least among us. This year, we're celebrating 10 years of advocacy against land grabbing, which has yielded positive results, such as in Ghana where communities are reclaiming their land and preventing predatory businesses from exploiting it, and in Uganda, where a pastoral community is exploring agriculture to improve their livelihoods and reduce child trafficking. As people of faith, we are called to stand in solidarity with the vulnerable and to advocate for justice. That is why our peace song "Let Us Live Together Without Tribalism" is promoting peace and reconciliation in the Democratic Republic of Congo. We're also grateful for the reduction of the proposed 5% excise tax on remittances to 1% in the US, thanks to our joint advocacy efforts, which will help minimize the burden on African immigrants sending money to loved ones and ensure more resources reach families and communities in need. I invite you to also to take action by reading and sharing our newsletter and joining our advocacy in whichever way you can. May our work be a reflection of God's love and justice, and may we continue to serve as instruments of peace and reconciliation in the world.

AFJN Joins Calls Supporting Diplomacy Over Sanctions in US - South Africa Relations

AFJN joins the Advocacy Network for Africa (AdNA) in urging Congress to reject HR 4051 and HR 2633, opposing punitive measures against South Africa and advocating for diplomacy grounded in mutual respect and international law. Click here to learn more.

AFJN Hosts Ambassador Jean Bosco Barege of the Republic of Burundi

In August, AFJN welcomed Ambassador Jean Bosco Barege of the Republic of Burundi and his team to our office for a rich exchange on humanitarian diplomacy, cultural engagement, and renewed collaboration to promote peace and a deeper US-Burundi understanding. Discussions centered on opportunities that align with AFJN's Africa-US relations mission. Previously AFJN worked on promoting peaceful coexistence in Burundi. AFJN looks forward to partnering with the Embassy to showcase Burundi's vibrant culture and provide a more balanced understanding of the country beyond common conflict-driven-news narratives.

Exhibiting at the Leadership Conference of Women Religious in Atlanta

AFJN's Dr. Rogers with Board Chair, Sr. Nkechi Iwuoha, PHJC (Poor Handmaids of Jesus Christ) and Board Member Arleen Peterson exhibited during this year's Leadership Conference of Women Religious in Atlanta, GA. This event is key in sharing our mission among women religious communities in the US.

Networking Event Around Modern Foreign Assistance

AFJN attended the Modernizing Foreign Assistance Network (MFAN)'s launch of the "Consensus Principles & Recommendations for the Future of U.S. International Assistance". The panel discussed the report and the current approaches to foreign assistance and the possibilities of future changes.

Continued Advocacy Efforts for Peace in the DRC

While AFJN welcomed the June 27, 2025 peace agreement following the April 25 political declaration, AFJN continues to advocate for a genuine resolution, as M23 rebels still control a Congolese territory larger than Delaware and three times the size of Rhode Island. Despite claims of progress, the situation on the ground shows continued violence and increasing signs of de facto partition, in defiance of international appeals for respect of the DRC's sovereignty and territorial integrity. Read AFJN Policy Analyst, Mr. Jacques Bahati's article "10 Million Dead, Territory Lost: The War in Congo Shows No Sign of Ending".

On June 12 AFJN attended the "Congolese Women Leaders Raise Concerns about President Donald Trump's Minerals and Peace Deal in the Democratic Republic of the Congo" event at the National Press Club with our student interns. The relationship between conflict minerals, mining, and instability in the region is why support for the "Bridge to DRC Act of 2023" remains a key policy. AFJN welcomed the peace agreement and draft peace deal in May between Rwanda and the DRC, respecting the DRC's sovereignty and emphasizing the need for complete de-escalation of violence.

Prior to this agreement, AFJN and coalition efforts contributed to the international condemnation as well as measures against Rwanda's actions and M23 including the April 30 "Joint Statement on Efforts to Support Peace in Eastern Democratic Republic of the Congo" by the US Department of State.

Coalition Letter to Congress Calling for End to Arms Sales in Sudan

On June 4 AFJN was one of over 40 organizations that signed the Center for Civilians in Conflict's letter to Members of Congress to end arm sales to the United Arab Emirates due to their support of the Rapid Support Forces' in Sudan.

Letters Opposing the One Big Beautiful Act

On June 3 AFJN was one of hundreds of organizations that signed a letter to the US Senate opposing the "One Big Beautiful Act" that would eliminate healthcare, create food insecurity, and deepen poverty especially in marginalized communities due to funding cuts. On May 23 AFJN's Policy Analyst, Mr. Ntama Bahati, with summer interns hand delivered a letter against Section 112105, proposing a 5% excise tax on international remittances, of the Act to the to the US Senate Committee on Finance and individual Senators which AFJN believes unfairly burdens African migrants and their families.

Relay of Hope - Jubilee 2024 Turn Debt into Hope

In June, Jubilee USA Network (AFJN is an organizational member) had a team outside the G7 in Canada raising awareness of the impact of the debt burden on nations, including African nations, calling for debt relief and restructuring, and improved financial mechanisms. Sign the "Jubilee 2025: Petition to G7, G20, UN, IMF and World Bank" here.

On May 28 AFJN joined other organizations in Washington, DC for the Relay of Hope bringing awareness to the crushing debt burden facing many African nations. AFJN also created a short video including a prayer and actions to take. Watch the video here.

Threads of Peace

On May 24 AFJN Executive Director, Dr. Steven Nabieu Rogers spoke at the Threads of Peace event, on the White House Eclipse, that uses fashion to raise awareness of global conflicts and to bring unity to the global community.

Reintroduction of House Resolution 40 (Reparations)

On April 3 AFJN participated in Congresswoman Ayanna Pressley (MA-7) Office's call providing updates on the reintroduction of House Resolution 40 (Commission to Study and Develop Reparation Proposals for African Americans Act) that AFJN endorsed earlier in the year.

Responsible Minerals Trading and Tracing

The Public-Private Alliance for Responsible Minerals Trade (PPA) Leadership Team reviewed our April "Call for Action on Mineral Traceability and Conflict Financing in Eastern DRC" letter and said they will be circulating it to the wider membership for action. The message will include a post-Strategy-workshop communication for members alongside related resources and statements. This is a meaningful step forward in raising awareness and building solidarity across the PPA network.

AFJN's Unity Through Diversity: Children Sing for a United Congo

Believing that the Congolese people hold the key to resolving the ongoing conflict, AFJN continues to serve as a neutral voice - empowering communities in eastern Congo to choose peace by embracing the country's rich ethnic diversity as a source of strength. Division is not only a known trigger of armed conflict, but also a favored tool of those who oppose peace, rule of law, accountability, transparency, and democracy. In collaboration with partners, including local peace-promoting musicians, we released a children's version of the song "Let Us Live Together Without Tribalism," which has deeply resonated with the public. We invite you to support this message by watching, liking, and sharing the video to help amplify the children's call for unity and peace.

Reflecting on a Decade of Impact: Strengthening Land Justice and Responsible Investment in Ghana

This year, AFJN's land grabbing prevention and responsible investment initiative marked a significant milestone by returning to Ghana's Volta and Oti regions, where we organized a series of impactful town hall meetings. In communities such as Anfoe, Avevi, Helekpe, Zomayi, and Morkplikpo, we engaged residents, traditional leaders, and local stakeholders in discussions on land rights and responsible investment.

AFJN recently convened with the Brewaniase communities, whom we've been engaged with since 2014, to evaluate the initiative's impact and strategize on reinforcing the gains while addressing ongoing challenges. This culminated in a working session between a delegation of landowners, local chiefs, and representatives of Volta Red—the agribusiness that acquired land initially leased by Herakles Farms. The parties explored practical steps to fully implement the terms of the lease, including the fulfillment of Volta Red's pledged corporate social responsibility. A detailed report is currently being prepared to document the stories behind the photos and videos captured during this mission.

These projects are made possible by funding from the Raskob Foundation for Catholic Activities and other organizational and individual members.

Tackling Trafficking, Early and Child Marriage, and Domestic Servitude in Northern Ghana

Over the last several months AFJN with AFJN-Ghana and local organizations and government offices continue to raise awareness about the issues of human trafficking, child marriage, and domestic servitude using various forms of media (social media, TV, radio).

In collaboration with the local community, AFJN established a girls' club in Tusani Ayendi, Northern Ghana, as an alternative to support girls' education and prevent early and child marriage. The club has received positive feedback from local elders who value keeping girls in school and are supportive of initiatives that promote their well-being and education.

AFJN co-sponsored the coalition "Stop Human Trafficking, Child Marriage & Domestic Servitude Now!!!" video as a resources to raise awareness of these issues, reduce their occurrences, and to highlight the work being done to protect and help victim survivors.

Protecting Children Through Memorandums of Understanding in Nigeria

Throughout 2025, AFJN, in collaboration with AFJN-Nigeria, AFJN-Nigeria Youth Advocates, the National Agency for the Prohibition of Trafficking in Persons (NAPTIP), the Dominicans for Justice and Peace, and other partners, has been conducting community outreach programs to raise awareness about protecting children from early and child marriage, domestic servitude, and child labor. As part of these efforts, Memorandums of Understanding (MOUs) are being signed with local leaders, outlining provisions to safeguard children's rights, including parental declarations of intent to give out their child and community monitoring of children's whereabouts.

These MOUs aim to establish community safeguards to protect children from abuse and exploitation. During the outreach programs, community members expressed concerns about various issues, including unemployment, infrastructure development, access to electricity, poverty, education system improvement, and the need for government intervention and law enforcement. Additionally, community members emphasized the importance of involving a broader segment of the community, including women, and highlighted the need for police reform and anti-corruption measures to restore trust.

AFJN thanks the speakers including: Dr. Rogers, Rev. Sr. Teresa Sunday, Isaac Obot, Barrister Mrs. Amaka, Reverend Sister Stella Usen, Etido Ekpeyong, Christian Nkanta, Ikot Ekpene, Abasiofon Udo, Mrs. Emem Ukpabio, Maureen Mfon, Mr. Etido Udo, and Mr. Peter Ewah (and many others).

Akwa Ibom State

On August 6, the team visited the key community leaders, including the Village Head, family heads, women leaders, and youth leaders within the clan in Ekpeyong 2, Essien Udim Local Government Area (LGA) to educate and empower community stakeholders on the negative impacts of these issues that deeply affect the welfare and development of children and youth in the community. The Village Head expressed strong support for the initiative, encouraging continued advocacy within churches and schools. He emphasized that because the message comes from local youth advocates, it holds greater credibility and resonates more profoundly with the younger generation.

On August 2 the team visited the Amayan Clan in Ikot Ekpene LGA where they presented the MOU to the Clan Council and educated the members to the detrimental effects of these issues on the children and their community. Discussions also addressed the importance of community-level monitoring, tackling socio-economic factors, and a multi-level collaborative approach to enforcement especially including government officials.

On July 6, the team visited Ikpe Ikot Nkon, engaging with Presbyterian Church members and their pastor, who pledged to incorporate tackling these issues in his next sermon. The community signed the MOU and look forward to future collaboration.

On June 27 the team engaged the Council of Village Heads in Ini LGA. Many members of the council were enthusiastic inviting the team to go give similar sensitization sessions to their communities to further the advocacy engagement. Recommending the inclusion of the Christian Association of Nigeria to help disseminate the message among their congregations and the MOUs.

On June 5 the team visited an Ikot Ekwang community and successfully engaged leaders to participate in the MOU which highlighted their shared commitment to protecting children's rights. The chief promised to prioritize the MOU as a topic in their upcoming community meetings and expressed interest in inviting the advocates back.

The Village Head of the Mbiaobong community in Ini LGA announced that as of May 3, it is officially law that children must have a signed agreement by him prior to leaving the community. The village town crier was tasked to publicly announce the new child safeguarding regulation. Watch the video here. This community has a strong collaboration among key figures (including: the chiefs, the wife of the paramount ruler, the youth president, and the women leader, in addition to the Village Head) in their commitment to tackle these issues.

Youth Advocacy Meeting with Leader Umoh of Ikot Ekpene Local Government Council

On May 28, the AFJN Youth Advocates met with Mr. Nkereuwem Umoh, the esteemed Leader of the House of Ikot Ekpene Local Government Council where they sensitized him on these issues and gave him the MOU that called on the local government council, to enact a formal law mandating the institutionalization of child protection within the community. Mr. Umoh was very receptive and enthusiastic to get things started to pass the law as it is a proactive approach to safeguarding children and preventing exploitation. He pledged to assign two councilors from the local government to actively participate in ward-to-ward visits.

Ebonyi State:

On May 26 the group conducted a church outreach at the Assemblies of God Church Oguzuruonyeya, Ebonyi LGA where they successfully mobilized the church leadership and congregation to take a firm stand against child abuse, exploitation, and harmful traditional practices. The Reverend Pastor and the church community were proactive in accepting responsibility for child protection and advocacy which reinforces the importance of faith-based institutions as strategic allies in community-driven efforts to end child marriage and domestic servitude.

On April 28 the team visited Oswanka Village in Ezza Inyimaegu LGA and met with key stakeholders, youth, church, and women leaders in the community who were enthusiastic about the MOUs and creating additional awareness of these issues.

Rivers State:

In July, AFJN held an event in Port Harcourt to end early and child marriage and domestic servitude. The event was lead by Sister Fidelia.

MOU Implementation Following Ebonyi State High-Level Policy Briefing

In May, following AFJN's high-level policy briefing in April on ending early and child marriage and domestic servitude visit to His Royal Highness Eze Oliver Eze, His Royal Highness officially approved the implementation of the Community- Based Child Monitoring System and signing the MOU to regulate domestic child placements, ensuring protection, accountability, and child welfare. Additionally, in August he and other key stakeholders participated in a policy feedback session that noted: the official adoption of the MOU and approval of the community monitoring system, with plans to continue the awareness campaigns across all villages. Over 3,000 households in Eke-Awoke stand to benefit from these historic decisions.

“We must know where our children are, with who, and for what purpose. Let us join hands to protect and give proper direction to our future hopes, my good people of Eke-Awoke Kingdom.” - His Royal Highness Eze Oliver Eze (August 2025)

Empowering Over 1000 Youth in Advocating Against Early and Child Marriage and Domestic Servitude in Ebonyi State

In August, AFJN mobilized and engaged over 1,000 youths, five youth representing every parish in the state, across 13 Local Government Areas (LGAs) in Ebonyi State to end early and child marriage and domestic servitude. The program established the Catholic Youth Organization of Nigeria (CYON) Diocesan Body as the official reporting channel for cases related to domestic servitude and child marriage. The CYON Leadership and Chairperson were also appointed to ensure effective coordination and community outreach. The events, facilitated by Rev. Sr. Teresa Sunday, witnessed strong commitment and active participation from the youth, leading to the creation of a sustainable youth-driven reporting and monitoring system across the state. These youth advocates have been empowered to observe, report, and work against child exploitation. The collaboration between AFJN, CYON, and local communities strengthens the ongoing efforts to protect children in Ebonyi State from harmful practices.

Youth Community Farms in Lokupo and Iriiri

The Youth Community farms in Lokupo and Iriiri are getting started. After learning about key farming concepts (including making their own fertilizers) the community has plowed the fields and planted seeds. Additionally, in Lukupo the community was made aware that there is a water project with much of the needed infrastructure ready, however local disputes have delayed the release of the water. Key stakeholders, now aware of the situation, are looking to remedy it and the community should have access to water.

Later this year AFJN plans to expand this pilot project to two other impoverished communities where women are burdened with the responsibility of providing sustenance for the families in this difficult region. By training these women in sustainable agricultural practices, we hope to curb the food insecurity that is driving child migration. One woman who has been sponsored has started a bakery to be self sufficient and hopefully to build revenues and provide opportunities for the community.

Read Sr. Mary Lilly Driciru, MSMMC's article "Women and Community Empowerment in Karamoja Uganda" about the work being done.

This project is made possible by grants from the Conrad Hilton Foundation, Sisters of Notre Dame de Namur Base Communities, and other organizational and individual members.
